HEALTH GROWTH ENVIRONMENT

WAUKESHA COUNTY

Let's find out.

The National Children's Study will help scientists find answers to this question and many others. The Study will follow 100,000 kids from all across the United States to gather important information about our environment, the health of our children, and how the environment influences children's health.

Families from some parts of Waukesha County are invited to be part of this monumental effort. Together we can find answers that could improve children's health for generations to come.
